

Bio for Ryan McEachern

Ryan McEachern, Managing Director of the Mining Suppliers Trade Association Canada or MSTA CANADA is responsible for the administration, member services and government relations of the association. He has over 25 years of experience working in Canada and internationally in the mining industry for multinational mining, investment banking and global manufacturing and drilling services firms. Ryan holds an MBA from Wilfred Laurier University, a Bachelor of Science (Geology) from Lakehead University, and is recognized as a Professional Geologist in Ontario.

Overview of Association

The Mining Suppliers Trade Association Canada is the national non-profit trade association focussed on assisting members market to the mining industry across the world. Founded in 1981, the association is celebrating its 40th anniversary in 2021 and serves a membership of approximately 250 corporate members. The mandate of MSTA CANADA is to connect members to opportunities to grow their business in the world of mining through networking, information and education and advocacy. The membership of MSTA CANADA provide products and services across the whole mining value chain from early exploration, design and construction, operations, refining to closure and rehabilitation and are recognized as world leaders in suppliers to the mining world.